In response to your plans for the rejuvenation of High Wycombe's town centre... i suggest that all such careers should be liquidated; those who choose to parlay themselves whilst discrediting others, through an exclusive selection of resumes and referees. . I'm sure you've been expecting my response to this recent brief; and here it is...

After the mess you've made of Frogmoor and Oxford St and the protests blocking your ludative new stadium plans; i can't believe your audacity to come back spouting this garbo... Does it take a hundred active civillians protesting in the street touting bill-boards for you to adhere to more popular public opinion..?

By your own declaration, the industrialism of the surroounding Wye valley were an error but know you choose to correct it rather than quitting, to further effect resources and pollutive omissions whilst also building anew on Grafton St - in the exact location you have admitted should never have been developed in the first place. You are redeveloping spots off the unaptly named Chairborough Road and have premises for sale with permission to destruct in town centre locations. If you didn't seal empty properties and allowed a little ventilation to pass through, they would be less likely to be declared uninhabitable.

You quote lavish figures for developed areas, insinuating that an obese, over-heated, cotton-wool lifestyle is a healthy, viable and just existence for the select few homo-sapiens; learning nothing from examples of previous civilizations on Venus...

High wycombe now looks more like a pseudo-Milton Keynes and unfortunately primarily that is down to you numptys.. Do you think people like their town impersonating others... Why not rename Wycombe, Little Reading? The not so aptly named Eden complex is a consumer joke... and has resulted in an unhealthy proportion of retail outlets now stand empty in the old shopping precincts.

You also imply that we need more houses in the Wycombe valley; that there is an apparent housing shortage... HELLO... The one thing Wycombe isn't short of is houses! I dire anyone to argue to the contrary!

Do it,
